<p&gt;The Making Of&lt;/p&gt;
<p&gt;I ve always liked the idea of creating experiences for the web. Nowaday £ almost every mobile and desktop device has a web browser and visitors can experience your creation without the friction of8, £ downloading and installing a separate app. Prior to creating Vortelli s, I dabbled with tools like Three.js, Phaser and Construct, but8, £ I never actually completed a project. I kept falli ng into the cycle of starting a project with excitement and motivation8, £ but as d encounter problems, I d gradually lose interest and eventually guit.</p& qt;
<p&gt;In mid-2024, I promised myself that I was going8 , £ to break that cycle by finishing and releasing a 3D multiplayer web game. I still wasn t proficient with any particular8, £ game engine and I spent many hours reading and watching Y ouTube videos trying to decide on the perfect engine. I8, £ eventually figured ou t that there was no such thing as a perfect engine and I really just needed to p ick8, £ one, learn the basics and start building. I ended up choosing PlayCanvas because I was already pretty comfortable with JavaScript8, £ and I found its edit or very simple to use.</p&gt; <p&gt;I spent the majority of my time figuring out how to get8, £ the multipla yer netcode working. At first, the prototype game didn t have any sort of goal o r objective, it was just8, £ an open world where you could hang out with other pl ayers. Maybe it was because I m a solo dev, but8, £ I started to feel that player s would quickly become bored with this experience. Some kind of minigame needed to be8, £ added to give players a sense of purpose. I went with a pizza cooking m inigame because everyone loves pizza, right?8, £ I chose the name Vortelli s Piz
za,
     because it sounds like the name of a somewhat believable pizza shop and 18, £ couldn t find any real life businesses on Google using that name already.</
