As Redes de Adversariais Generativas (GANS) são um tipo do algoritmo da aprendizagem profunda usado para gerar dados novos que se assemelham aos existentes. Os GANS consistem em duas redes neurais: uma geradora e a discriminadora, o criador cria os mesmos tipos dos seus próprios sistemas; enquanto isso ele avalia as informações geradas ao ser realista ou não eles competem entre si com tempo suficiente --o produtor melhora mais realisticamente assim como gera resultados consistentes no futuro das suas atividades físicas.

Redes Neurais (Ng), por outro lado, são um tipo de algoritmo machine learning inspirado na estrutura e funcionamento do cérebro humano. Eles consistem em camadas dos neurónios interconectados que processam as informações transmitidas pelas redes neurais para uma variedade das tarefas como reconhecimento da imagem ou processamento natural da linguagem usada nas mesmas áreas onde o processo ocorre através delas.
